OAKLAND YOUTH HELD AS FIREBUG

$500,000 LOSS IN FLAMES SET BY MERE BOY OF FOURTEEN

YOUNGSTER CONFESSES TO LONG LIST OF FIRES

$100,000 Commission House, School Building and Ten Homes in East Oakland Are Partial List of Crimes of Pyromaniac.

Oakland.—A 14-year-old boy with a mania for setting fires has caused the loss of approximately half a million dollars' worth of property in Oakland. William Fisher, arrested shortly after the outbreak of the dangerous blaze in the Tilden Lumber company yards at First and Harrison streets, broke down and confessed to setting a score or more of fires within the past few months. Included in the list of buildings the youth is credited with firing are the Hunt-Hatch company commission house, which burned, November 1, with a loss of $100,000; the Garfield school, destroyed by fire in September with $150,000 loss; a hay barn near Hayward, belonging to the Bates-Boland company, in which $60,000 worth of hay was burned; ten vacant houses in East Oakland, in which the fires were put under control before they had done extensive damage.

It is believed by the police that this is only a partial list of the incendiary fires for which the alleged pyromaniac is responsible.

The youngster was found by firemen loitering about the Tilden Lumber company's yard after the fire broke out there. They became suspicious of him and turned him over to the police.

Previous to the lumber yard fire, young Fisher had approached William Smith, night watchman at the Hunt-Hatch property adjoining the lumber yard and told him that two men in an automobile were going to set fire to the lumber. It was while Smith, guided by the boy, was looking for the two men that the fire broke out.

At police headquarters the boy at first denied all knowledge of the origin of the fire but finally, the police say, admitted that he had started it. With this admission as a starting point, the lad was subjected to an exhaustive examination in the course of which he disclosed the extent of his incendiary activities. He could give no reason for having set the various fires.

The police officers say that the boy is subnormal mentally and though 14 years of age is only in the third grade at school. He is being held for the detention home and officers have taken him to the scenes of numerous fires of supposedly incendiary origin to see if he could offer any information regarding them.

The blaze in the Tilden lumber yard was extinguished before more than $500 damage was done. Most of the lumber piles in the yard were drenched with crude oil and gasoline.

CHINESE WAR TAKES SERIOUS TURN FOR ALIEN POPULATION

Tien-Tsin.—The war situation continued to grow worse in the vicinity of Tien-Tsin and the American commandant at Tangshan, eighty-two miles northeast of here, center for the Kailan mining administration, formally advised removal from Tangshan of all foreign women and children, on the international train now reported returning from Chinwnagtao.

When Shensi province troops entered Tien-Tsin they deserted their trains and scattered in the western suburb of Hopei.

Following their arrival, the American consul called in all American citizens from the native city and suburbs into the foreign settlement, while strong Japanese patrols were sent out to man defense posts around the city.

CONSTABLE SHOOTS TO SCARE WOUND FOUR PRANK PLAYERS

Forestville.—Engared by the Hallowe'en jokes of a group of youths, Lawrence Kimes, deputy village constable, fired a gunload of birdshot into the gang and four of his victims are under treatment for shot wounds and the marshal is in jail at Santa Rosa, under arrest for assault with a deadly weapon with intent to commit murder. Bail has been fixed at $2,500. The four victims, none of whom were seriously hurt, are between the ages of 15 and 20.

Kimes, who is more than 60 years old, had been the butt of Hallowe'en jokesters for two nights.

CATCH ROBBER OF CALIFORNIA BANK

KLAMATH FALLS. OREGON, MAN HELD AT SACRAMENTO

OFFICERS NAB HOLD-UP AS HE PLANS NEW RAID

Find $8,000 of Bank of Italy Loot in Suspect's Car With Guns and Ammunition — Makes Confession of Woodland Robbery.

Officers investigating the record of William P. Richards, arrested at Sacramento for numerous bank robberies in California found that in October, 1915, he was sentenced to San Quentin from San Francisco for one year for grand larceny. In July, 1918, he was arrested in Los Angeles as a draft dodger, but later released. In August, 1922, he was arrested in Oakland on a grand larceny charge, held to answer to the superior court, and then released on probation. In August, 1923, he again ran afoul the Oakland police, when he drew a revolver on police who were trying to question him on suspicion.

Police believe that after he held up and robbed the Lincoln bank last March he took his $8,000 or more in loot and purchased the Lake hotel in Klamath Falls. With the $8,000 proceeds of the Roseville bank robbery he is believed to have purchased his Yuba City ranch. Most of the loot of the Woodland bank was found in his car when he was arrested here.

Sacramento.—William P. Richards, hotel owner of Klamath Falls, Ore., was arrested here as one of the most successful bank robbers of recent years.

Richards confessed to having held up and robbed the Bank of Italy branch at Woodland of $8,000 on September 29, last, when he used Joe Duncan, one of his negro hotel porters, as a confederate, police say. He is accused of having single-handed held up and robbed the bank of Western Placer, at Lincoln, of $8,000 on March 15, and the Railroad National bank of Roseville of between $8,000 and $10,000 on July 26, last.

Authorities are trying to connect him with bank robberies all the way from San Francisco north to the Oregon line.

With the loot from the banks he held up, Richards, married a few years ago, bought the Lake hotel, a big ranch near Yuba City, and was one of the largest and most frequent depositors in Klamath Falls banks.

In his role of successful young business man and person of leisure, Richards was just preparing for one of his daring holdups of suburban banks when the detectives arrested him in the Senator garage here, it is believed.

Two suitcases containing $8,150 in bills and silver, the latter still wrapped in Bank of Italy stamps and paper, were found in Richards' car, along with two shotguns, a woman's wig and several dresses, canned goods sufficient to last a week and shotgun and revolver ammunition.

Richards made no attempt to bluster when detectives arrested him. The Bank of Italy currency in his car was mute evidence, and he soon confessed. He seemed amused to reflect upon what the Sacramento and Marysville men and bankers, with whom he frequently transacted business as a hotel man, would think of his double identity.

"This will be a knockout for them when they hear of it," he told detectives.

Agents of the state criminal investigation bureau had been on Richards' trail ever since the capture of Joe Duncan on a train at Dunsmuir, October 1, and his identification as a porter in Richards' employ. The hotel man's movements have been carefully watched, but detectives, finding him universally respected, member of several clubs in Klamath Falls, were loath to suspect him.

His arrest was made by Sacramento police, who, having trailed him from his Klamath Falls hotel, were aroused by his suspicious actions.

CLUB DISCUSSES APPROPRIATE SUBJUCT

The Country Woman's Club held a very interesting meeting Monday afternoon when the "Development of the Election" was the subject for the afternoon with the sub-divisions "Who Can Vote" and "Woman's Suffrage."

Mrs. E. R. Kennedy was chairman, and in the absence of Miss Lillian Cooke, who had left and Mrs. Warren Shelley, who was ill, conducted the meeting alone.

Mrs. Lucy McClintic, of San Jose, who represented the League of Women Voters had been asked to take the part of "Woman's Suffrage and gave a delightful review of the history of and the struggle for the franchise, which became universal throughout the United States in 1920.

She also gave a general survey of what women have done in the years since they became citizens and to what extent they are now engaged in politics and are holding political office.

She mentioned the equal rights amendment, and later spoke very briefly about the amendments.

Mrs. E. R. Kennedy in a short talk explained the provisions of various states limiting the franchise and also something of political machines and emphasized the great need of voting at the primaries in order to keep the right type of citizens in control. She recommended the book "The Great Game of Politics" by Kant. This subject being considered just before the presidential election of Tuesday was of great value and interest.

Miss Bernice Bogart favored the ladies with two delightful violin solos, "Meditation from Thais' by Massenet and "From the Canebrake."

Announcement was made that arrangements were under way for the joint benefit entertainment which Mrs. Vaudine Sanders will give sometime this month.

"SANTA CLARA COUNTY CONSOLIDATED"

Mr. Wendell Thomas, of the San Jose Chamber of Commerce "builded better than he knew" when he wrought to make a consolidated civic body for the whole Santa Clara County out of the thirteen or more local organizations in the county. The second meeting of this consolodated body as held in Palo Alto.

It may not be wrong or unwise to say that it is not likely that a more representative body or men ever got together in this county at any time for any purpose; and it is certain that no gathering of men ever got together in this county with a more fixed determination to try to promote the welfare of the WHOLE COUNTY in every way possible. This body has been organized for the purpose of working together for Santa Clara County as a whole, and in so doing the interest of each community will, of course, be taken care of by the whole body rather than by the community's individual, or local, civic organization. This does not mean either, that there shall be nothing for the local organization to do. They shall go right ahead looking after the affairs of their own community as before, but with this assurance that in any matter needing outside assistance, the community shall have the united cooperation of the entire county through its consolidated organization.

Santa Clara County Consolidated is composed of the president and secretary of each local chamber of commerce, or similar civic organization. Permanent organization was effected at the Palo Alto meeting by electing a president, first and second vice-presidents and a secretary-treasurer. A very simple form of constitution and by-laws was adopted and it was decided that for the present, and until some urgent need shall arise, there shall be no dues or assessments. The members of the consolidated body pay their own expenses (except traveling expenses) and there are no other expenses as yet.

This organization will undoubtedly accomlish a lot of good deeds for this county, and Mr. Thomas, the originator of the idea as it was applied here, will long be remembered for his good work in perfecting the organization.—Mountain View Register Leader.

Topeka Capital—According to the Federal Reserve Bank of Kansas City in a period of three weeks following wheat harvest 2,391 farmers notes rediscounted by 53 Kansas banks for amounts aggregating four million dollars in round figures were paid before they fell due.

Dust Is Easily Removed by Using Homemade Tool

After a drive along hot, dusty roads, the depressions of the auto cushions, as well as the folds of the back and sides, will be found packed with dust. A tool which can be made in a minute is made by cutting off most of the handle of an old shaving brush and, in the center of the cut just made, driving an ordinary beheaded nail. This should be centered as near as possible. Place the end of the nail in the jaws of a hand drill, and with this dust out the depressions as fast as you come to them. Due to the high speed of the drill the dust is quickly removed.—Automobile Digest.

Centuries ago

Men kept their treasures in clumsy iron chests, secured by ingeniously contrived locks. These were hidden in musty dungeons behind thick castle walls. Trusted knights stood guard at the door.

How primitive this method of safe-keeping appears today compared with the Safe Deposit service afforded by this bank. Here you have absolute protection, accessibility, privacy and courteous attention. And the cost is little—less than one cent a day.

A GROCER is a green grocer when he sells greens. Obviously, the larger proportion of greens he sells the greener he is.

Blaine's Store has taken on a slightly greenish tinge, aud customers like it; they say, "So you're beginning to handle fresh vegetables? Fine idea!" Yes, and we'll not be like the green grocery described in the famous book, "Main Street." The heroine, newly married and just come to town, takes a walk to look the stores over. The sorrowing relatives are extended sincere sympathy in their sudden bereavement.

POST ROUTES BEGUN BY NEWSPAPER MAN

The following interesting bit of history concerning the origin of the United States Post Office was taken from "The Spirit of the Revolution" by John C. Fitzpatrick. Being in the newspaper field this account was of real interest to us and we trust will be to our readers.

The Revolutionary Post Office.

The Post Office of the United States, as a distinct civic establishment, is built upon a foundation supplied by the energy and enterprise of an American newspaper publisher. A year or more before the outbreak of the Revolutionary War it came into existence in opposition to the Royal Mail Service in the Colonies and reached such a point of efficiency that, when the Continental Congress established a postal service, it meant little more than taking over and systematizing William Goddard's newspaper mail.

William Goddard was the owner and publisher of the Maryland Journal and Baltimore Advertiser, a weekly newspaper that espoused the cause of the Colonies with fearless enthusiasm. Because of its pungent criticism of British administrative measures his paper was practically barred from the mail a year or more before the war began. With true American newspaper enterprise, Goddard refused to be balked, and forthwith established a line of riders from Massachusetts to Georgia. These post-riders, almost at once, were entrusted with carrying small parcels and letters by the people along the routes, as their service was regular and more dependable than that of the Royal Mail riders. By August, 1774, Goddard's service was in full operation and the revenues of the Royal Mail were seriously curtailed by the competition. It was not a peaceful competition, however, and there were frequent personal encounters and much bad blood displayed by the competing riders when they chanced to meet upon the road. These were, in effect, the preliminary skirmishes of the war that was soon to break forth.

Tuesday next is Armistics Day which the legislature of California made a legal holiday for the state, so that the governor has announced that no proclamation is necessary.

Plans for its observance have been made at many places, and all of the 300 Posts of the American Legion in the state will participate in some way.

RED CROSS DUTY TO AID VETERANS

Spends Nearly Four Millions in Year to Lessen Burdens of Disabled Soldiers.

SERVES 63,700 IN HOSPITALS

Every Case Is Given Individual Service—Assists Families of These Men Everywhere.

Washington.—The need of individual assistance by ex-service men and their families from the Red Cross is as pressing today as it was immediately after the end of the World War. For six years this work has been foremost of all Red Cross services, and in emphasizing the steady public support of this work the Red Cross National Headquarters urges the largest enrollment this year during the membership campaign opening on Armistice Day, November 11.

Nearly four million dollars of Red Cross funds spent for disabled veterans and their dependents during the year ended June 30 last presents some idea of the magnitude of this work. The current year, it is estimated, will call for still further disbursements of funds for the reason that the Red Cross, through more than 3,500 Chapters in as many communities in the United States, has been called upon to help the ex-service men in making out their applications for the adjusted compensation granted in the so-called bonus law.

58,767 Soldier Cases a Month

The Red Cross work for the disabled soldier is designated "home service," for it gives individual attention to the man and his family approximating the interest and loving care of the home. Such service in the hospitals, camps, soldiers' homes and sanatoria, averaged 33,951 cases a month during the year. Assistance to ex-service men and their dependents averaged 58,767 cases a month. In addition, the Red Cross in the last twelve months provided 33,000 recreation and entertainment events in the hospitals and camps.

Thus the Red Cross, symbolized as the "Greatest Mother," still watches over these many thousands of men, comforts them, helps to lighten the tedium of their physical reconstruction, and in their homes lifts some of the burdens from their "own people."

Work in Communities Increases

The home service of the Red Cross was the most pressing duty of 2,609 Chapters, an increase of 182 communities where problems affected by the war veteran's condition required solution through immediate and intelligent assistance. The Chapters alone expended some $2,000,000 in this work.

The transient disabled soldier, usually suffering from disability or tuberculosis, is almost everywhere a grave problem. From national funds the past year $173,076.36 was expended in helping the Chapters to care for these wandering men.

According to government report there are 4,800 veterans in civilian institutions, and in the national homes for soldiers the complications are increasing. The large groups of patients whose claims have been disallowed, of veterans of foreign wars, and the great number of men permanently resident in these institutions call for Red Cross work which cannot be avoided nor denied.

Definite Service to 73,700

Of a total of 84,500 ex-service men in hospitals and other institutions 73,700 were rendered a definite and specialized service by the Red Cross. In a single month 4,185 new cases were presented and a total of 20,125 was acted upon—figures which serve to illustrate the magnitude of the information and claims service engaging the attention of Red Cross workers. New veteran legislation amending the War Risk act which extends many additional rights to disabled ex-service men will reopen thousands of cases and require still greater Red Cross service.

When Congress granted a charter to the American Red Cross it charged the organization with the duty to act as "the medium of communication between the American people and their Army and Navy." This responsibility to the enlisted men and their families is met every year without restriction.

Serves Men on Active Service

The extent of this Red Cross activity during the last year embraced a total of 195,246 cases. There were 36,995 separate soldiers' and sailors' claims; 20,316 investigations of home conditions; 11,421 cases related to discharges, furloughs, etc. Assistance was given in 39,633 instances for personal, business or family problems; 744,220 visits were made to the sick or disabled, and nearly 40,000 letters and telegrams dispatched to the homes of enlisted men.

From June to September at the numerous military training camps the Red Cross provided information and home service to the trainees, also instruction in First Aid and Life-Saving. The entertainment and recreation events at the various Army and Navy hospitals reached nearly 9,500 during the year, and occupational therapy in nine Naval hospitals gave constructive and beneficial results and occupied the time of patients in the making of useful and ornamental things

W C T U Report of Annual Meeting

A meeting of the Campbell W. C. T. U. as held at the home of Mrs. C. H. Whitman Wednesday October 29, Mrs Newcomb being hostess. The delegates to the forty-fourth annual convention held at Sacramento from October 20 to 24 gave their reports. The delegates were Mrs. Effie Hubbell, Mrs. Robert Kennedy Sr., and Mrs. Sarah Byrnes. Mrs. Kennedy in her modest, lady-like manner reported the first two days of the convention. She told of the efficient way in which Mrs. Addie Garwood Estes, State President of the W. C. T. U., conducted the meetings bringing the main aims, and accomplishments before the sessions in a forceful and business like manner. The reception in honor of the officers and delegates to the convention given at the Executive Mansion, Monday evening, October 20, was a most enjoyable affair, Governor Richardson receiving the guests with great hospitality. Mrs. Hubbell continued the report, laying great stress on the County Presidents' Pageant, "The Vision of Frances Willard.'. This pageant in which Mrs. Doreas J. Spencer, one of the crusaders, took a prominent part, showed the work accomplished by the W. C. T. U. Mrs. Byrnes substituted for Mrs. Whitman as state superintendent of Gifts and Bequests and read the three minute address prepared by Mrs Whitman in the superintendents' contest. The address was as follows.

GIFTS AND BEQUESTS

Our first gift is ourselves. Lowell tells us that a gift without the giver is bare, so then the giving of ourselves includes our faith, our prayers, our efforts, our money. Law enforcement, like other lines of our work, flourishes or fails according to the support given or not given.

The dues gathered by our unions never have and never will be sufficient for the demands of the work, so there must be gifts, many and generous.

That it may be easier for those who come after us, we should make bequests and secure them from others. W ehave already gained many excellent laws, but money is needed to aid in their enforcement.

If the W. C. T. U. could have the money it might have and should have, the world would be thrilled with what it would accomplish. The W. C. T. U. worked faithfully to secure the 18th Amendment. No organization could do more to enforce it if we only had the means.

Through the department of Gifts and Bequests, give these consecrated women the money and let them, with our help, demonstrate to the world the revolution that would be brought about in the enforcement of the Wright Act; the Red Light Abatement law; and the law against the sale of Tobacco to Minors.

With a long, deep purse, we should be able to give general publicity to facts relative to law enforcement and the concentration of official responsibility. There is great need that the masses be wisely educated, removing false ideas regarding personal liberty!

There is urgent need to instill in the minds of parents and children alike an increased respect for all laws. From the beginning our women have been trained to study values, both as to money and human life. It has often been said that no organization makes money accomplish so much as does the W. C. T. U. Our women are neither misers or spendthrifts but safe and sane investors. A famous artist was once asked by a visitor what he mixed his paints with to obtain such marvelous effects. "With brains, madam," he replied. Now friends when you determine to pour out your gifts in unstinted abundance we promise they shall be mixed with the brains and sanctified common sense of our peerless leaders, astounding the world with the results. How will they do it? Just try them and see! They will prove your faith by their works for God and Home and Native Land.

Wednesday afternoon the delegates were entertained at a "tea" at the Crocker Art Gallery, this place being filled with rare art treasures both historical and beautiful, and the visit was well worth while. Wednesday evening the Federated council of churches of Sacramento united with the convention in a Jubilee prayer meeting. There were ten minute addresses by the different ministers, among whom was Rev. J. F. Wilson, who talked on "Our Debt to the Women". This address was of particular interest to Campbell delegates. On Thursday Allegiance Day was observed and the convention sessions were held in the assembly chamber at the State Capitol, opening with a song service, followed by a continuation of the superintendents' contest, general theme, "Law Enforcement." During the Local Union's Hour "The Power Behind the Throne" was demonstrated by a march around the assembly chamber, conducted by Mrs. Emilie Skoe, State Recording Secretary, and in which one hundred fifty-three branch presidents, costumed in yellow and white and carrying banners, appeared. At 1 P. M. came the march of allegiance, one of the most impressive features of the annual convntion. More than four hundred women appeared in the march, all wearing white or yellow costumes and head-dress fashioned similarly to those of the Red Cross nurses' uniforms. The men's unit followed the ladies. The only banners were the official W. C. T. U. banner and the American flag. Twenty-three countries were represented.

After listening to the interesting and inspiring reports, the members were served with delicious refreshments by the hostess Mrs. Newcomb.

THE PROPER USE OF LIGHT HOW WE SEE

Objects are seen by the light that falls upon them and is reflected to our eyes. A dark object reflects but little of the light that falls upon it—perhaps less than one-fourth; a light colored object reflects a large part of the light—perhaps three-quarters.

If we are to see objects, the light must fall upon them and be reflected from them. The more darkly they are colored, the more light is needed to enable us to see them. The light that falls on objects which we wish to see may be termed useful light. Most electric lamp bulbs when used without shades or reflectors throw out light in all directions—just as much to the ceiling and walls of a room as down to the table top. Well designed shades are made so that they not only soften the light, but also reflect some light that would otherwise be wasted and direct it downward and outward to the objects that we wish to see.

GLOOM

Proper lighting requires two things: First, that there be enough light so that the eye can see quickly and easily; and second, that this light be shaded and so placed in the room that the eye is not strained by glare. Many homes have soft, shaded light that is too dim for good vision; others have enough light but harmful glare is a part of it; too few homes have plenty of light without glare, which is necessary for proper lighting and the protection of eyesight.

The eye is truly a wonderful organ. Because it does not always immediately complain, we often make it work under great difficulty, and strain it.

Have you ever stopped reading because of a feeling of discomfort? You have a headache without any reason for it that you can think of, or your eyes feel tired, or you find that you cannot fix your attention on your book or paper. You may find later that these are signs you were straining your eyes.

We can see under a dim light, but we can see more easily and more quickly if we have more light. When we live day after day with too little light, we are likely to find that our eyesight is affected, and that we may need glasses. Then we know we have strained our eyes until they cannot do their work without help.

DECORATE WITH LIGHT

Up to this point we have thought of lighting only as it helps us to see easily—in other words, as it is useful. Of course, this is very important in every room in the home, and everywhere else. But when we light our home, we want the lighting to make each room pleasant and attractive, and our lighting, except for the work rooms (the kitchen, the laundry, the basement and attic), should be as much of a decoration or ornament as the pictures and rugs and curtains.

Lighting equipment may be ornamental and decorative, and at the same time it can be made in such a way that it will properly light the room. Much of the lighting equipment in use today can be greatly improved by using shades that are longer, so that the bulb is completely hidden from the eye and denser, so that no extremely bright spot appears in the center of them.

A FEW CAUTIONS

Here are a few cautions that will help you protect your eyes:

Don't judge the amount of light in a room by the brightness of the bare, unshaded bulbs. That is the indication of glare.

Don't expose your eyes to unshaded lights. That may cause eyestrain.

Don't read while facing a bright light or a sunny window. Have the light come from beside you or over your shoulder.

Don't use bright lights against a dark background.

Don't try to read in a dim light that tires your eyes.

Don't let your lighting equipment get dirty. Clean it regularly. Dust and dirt may cause you to lose as much as one-half or even three-fifths of the light that the bulbs produce and that you are paying for.

Don't depend on taking out light bulbs to connect appliances and portable lamps. Have convenience outlets put in for this purpose.

Don't be indifferent to the preservation of your eyesight.

"CLINIC"

The free "clinic" is one of the most beneficial of the institutions set up in recent times. The word "clinic" is derived from the Greek through the French "clinique" which means "reclining." The clinic patient, properly speaking, is one who is confined to bed and who is treated in the presence of students of medical classes.

ANZACS STUDYING OUR METHOD IN IMMIGRATION PROBLEM

Melbourne.—Members of all parties in the commonwealth parliament are watching with keen interest the way America is meeting its immigration problem. Although it is recognized that the question of Asiatic immigration is not exactly similar to the issue of European emigration to the United States, all the effects of the Johnson bill, including the Japanese exclusion measure, are looked on as test cases which one day may be applicable to Australia.

Supporters of the "white Australia" policy protested warmly recently against the increasing number of Italians, Czechoslovakians, Maltese and other European nationalities who have been pouring into the commonwealth to fill the labor demand in the sugar and cotton fields. This was the policy on which Sir Henry Barwell, ex-premier of South Australia, practically lost the election for the National party in that state.

VARIOUS FACTORS INSURE IGNITION

Of Much Importance That Points Be Kept Clean and Make Perfect Contact.

By ERWIN GREER,
President Greer College of Automotive Engineering, Chicago.

There are a number of factors to be considered to insure good ignition; breaker points must be kept clean and make perfect contact; make sure that the points separate the proper distance; coil connections must be tight; test for a broken down condenser; there is considerable wear on the distributor segments, same can be cleaned with 00 sandpaper.

Do not run spark plug wires through fiber or metal tubing; cut grooves in two blocks of fiber and run wires through grooves and bolt the blocks together. This will overcome considerable ignition trouble.

Short Causes Trouble.

A short in the light wiring will cause battery to discharge, and may also cause a fire. The presence of a short is indicated by a heavy discharge through the ammeter; a short is caused by a wire pinching between the frame of the car breaking the insulation; for emergency repairs use friction tape to insulate the wire from frame.

A good many arrests are being made for not having a tail light burning. The tail light should be connected in series with the dash light and then in the event that the tail light goes out the dash light will go out also. When a six-volt battery is used, dash and tail-light globes must be three to four volts each, six to eight volts on head lights; with a 12-volt battery, dash and tail lights must be six to eight volts, head lights 12 to 16 volts.

The horn must respond the minute the button is pressed. With a little attention it will respond; lubricate the bearings by removing the horn cover, clean commutator, with 00 sandpaper. To adjust horn loosen adjusting screw, turn with screwdriver and adjust to get the best possible sound. If the motor commutator is badly worn, horn should be taken off and armature must be put in a lathe to true up the commutator, new brushes and brush springs should be installed. There are times when the ignition switch key is misplaced or lost and it is absolutely impossible for the average driver to start car without the aid of a skilled electrician.

Instructions for Starting.

Here are a few instructions on how to get the car started. In cases where magneto ignition is used remove magneto ground wire and the car will start without any trouble.

A car equipped with battery ignition can be started by connecting a wire to the live side of the starting switch to one side of the ignition coil so that the current will go through the coil before it goes through the breaker points.

To make sure that the wire is connected to the right side of the starting switch touch the wire to the frame of the car and if a spark or short is produced the connection is O. K.

Two waifs placed aboard the steamship Manchuria in the Panama canal by an unidentified soldier were "adopted" by the party of 100 San Francisco Shriners en route to New York, according to word from New York. The children, 3 and 2 years old, are being held by immigration officials.
